TEMPERANCE MASS MEETINGS.—The

He thought that the manner of discussing the subject of temperance, as had been done in this city recently, was quite pro-per. He liked the persuasive method that had been adopted by the ladies, to try to convince men that are engaged in the liquor traffic, that it is wrong; and considered the best way to do a thing as considered the best way to do a thing as good as any. He thought the Churches in the city had done much to keep up the liquor traffic, many of the promisent men in the different congregations being engaged in different congregations being engaged in the consideration of the promisent men in the different congregations being engaged in the promisent men in the consideration of the promisent men in the signed, to give notice to the President in the demands that officer to make other the consideration of the co character. The meeting opened with a hymn sung by several ladies and gentlemen, Mr. W. H. Sheib presiding at the organ. An earnest and eloquent prayer was then of-fered by Rev. Dr. Reily, of the Fourth Street M. E. Church.

Rev. James Moffat, of the Second Presbyterian Church, was introduced to the audience, and announced as his text the words found in the 6th verse of the 9th Chapter of The Acts, viz: "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" He thought the present movement precisely what was wanted. What had been done heretofore for the good of man was now done for the glory of God. There could be nothing accomplished without prayer. It might be well, in discussing the evils of intem-perance, to also discuss the methods by which they may be remedied. We have at the present time such a sentiment on the subject of intemperance as we have not had for years past, and it is have not had for years past, and it is "the lady from Ireland," was disorderly therefore our duty to make the best of it. There are only two things needed to insure success—a plan of operations looking to a long campaign, and a class of workers who have patience and perseverance. He gave it as his oplain that the numbers were so out of proportion in this city, that it would take from three to this city, that it would take from three to ten years to banish intemperance.
